Monday, June 13

A number of the members of the Class of 1921 have indicated their intention of entering our School Monday, June 13th.

Special classes in which rapid progress can be made will be maintained for the benefit of these graduates. While we enroll beginning students each Monday, we especially recommend Monday, June 13th, as the best time for Des Moines graduates to join us.

The wisdom of taking a commercial course immediately after graduation from high school has been demonstrated in thousands of cases, and we cordially invite the young people of East High, who look forward to employment in business, to enroll with us on the 13th to begin the preparation they must make if they are to be really successful in the commercial field.

Call, write, or telephone for our catalog.

AUTOGRAPHS

ay this volume ever be
Like a book of memory
That will bring again to mind
Scenes of days we left behind,
Happy days in our East High,
Pleasant days, so swift gone by,
Scenes and faces that we knew
Touched with life and youth anew.

When you read it, be once more
Just a student as before.

In Memoriam

BEN MILLER.

Though there are many students in East High, the place Ben Miller held in our hearts can never be filled. Death has taken him from us, but the sunshine of his cheery smile and friendly disposition still remains.

In the few brief years he lived Ben had no chance to do the big things of life, but he fulfilled the little duties with a willing spirit. Life had many interests for him. He was fond of swimming, and other athletics. For the future he had planned to go to the banking school at Iowa City. In his life he contributed much to the interests of his school and to us he has given that which can never be taken away, the memory of a friend.

His death has brought us sadness, but we are happy in the thought that we were permitted to be with him even so short a time. Having once known Ben we will always know him. We will always have the happy remembrance of his smile and boyish face. As we leave East High and go into the world of work which he will never know, we will take with us the memory of a friend who once known, will never be forgotten.

MR. HALL

Mr. John Hall, a veteran of the Civil War, and for many years janitor and ardent supporter of East High, died last summer. In order that his memory may be perpetuated among the students of the school, we place this tribute in our annual. He had been with us for so long a time that we were shocked and grieved to learn of his death, for he was a favorite and friend of us all.

He was a patriot in our school, backing us in our enterprises, and taking a personal interest in the welfare of East High. He rejoiced in our victories, and sympathized with us in our defeats.

He has left as a permanent memorial a record of loyal service to his country, and though his name will never be found in the pages of history, we are proud to say that he was our friend. In our hearts the memory of his cheerful, fatherly ways, and friendly interest in our school will never grow dim.

SENIORS OF 1921

Today we are gathered together
As Seniors of Twenty One;
We've climbed this far up the path of Life
And our high school days are done.

Though the path was rough and rocky
As we ascended higher,
Some smooth and level stretches
Helped us nearer our desire.

We passed the Freshman milestone
With courage and spirits high;
All pushing and working together,
Our watchword was "Do or Die."

The second milestone soon was passed
And our high school work half o'er.
But with colors high, and full of "pep"
We were anxious and ready for more.

We never lagged nor strayed behind
When the Junior year was passed,
But went right on, through thick and thin
Till Seniors we were, at last.

Our guides and loyal companions
As we were struggling along,
Were our parents and faithful teachers
Who inspired us to be strong.

But now we have our Commencement
And really begin our work.
We will start on soon up the narrow path
And we've learned that we must not shirk.

Let us keep our eyes on that golden peak,
The goal of a worth while life;
Cheer the fellow who's fallen down
And help him in his strife.

Yes, we are leaving East High School
But our memory lingers yet,
When looking back on the path we've climbed
These four years, we'll never forget.

Just one word more to you, my friends,
It's engraved o'er the door, you'll find
"For the Service of Humanity,"
Is what we should keep in mind.

ITEMS FROM THE DIARY OF A MEMBER OF THE CLASS OF 1921

'17-'18.

Attended my first assembly today. Am beginning to feel as if I was really a member of East High. Even sang a little of America when the rest of the school did. Awfully hard to keep quiet, though, when the others do. The faculty were on the platform, and I couldn't pick out a one I'd care to have. One of the fellows who's been in high school a whole year called me freshie, and said I looked mighty green.

—Went to find my classes today. Found I had been assigned to an "A" freshman class, and was scared to death. Wish I was an "A" freshman. Got two classes on the third floor and two in the basement. Got one teacher that is fairly good looking, two that are worse, and one that is worse yet.

—Had what they called a pep meeting. Gave one yell myself, but everybody looked at me, so I didn't yell any more. Pep meetings I guess are just for seniors to yell in.

—Had another pep meeting today. Lot more noise than before. Most of the freshmen are beginning to whisper the yells. Probably before long we'll be yelling like the rest.

—West High beat East High in football. I marched home with the rest shouting rickety rackety rus what's the matter with us. We made more noise than if we had won. So hoarse I can't talk.

—Dickens's Christmas Carol given in assembly today. Enjoyed very much.

—We freshmen gave a program for St. Valentine's Day in assembly. We'll show these seniors we're almost as good as they are.

—I'm an "A" freshman today. Getting up in the world, am I not?

—Vachel Lindsay sang for us today. "King Solomon had three hundred oxen, we are his oxen," according to him.

—Had seven assemblies today. The Belgian soldiers came, and we stood up and cheered, and one of them sang the "Marsellaise." Wish I was a Belgian.

—Had a four minute speaking contest today, and one of our class took third. Hurrah for us freshmen.

—Seniors came home from their breakfast this morning, and paraded around the halls. Wish I was a senior.

—Today was the last day of school. All the seniors were up on the platform. How small the new freshmen are!

'18-'19.

—Back in school again today. One of the teachers remembered me. Guess they're glad to see me back.

—Heard they are going to have to let school out on account of the flu. Hurrah for the flu, only hope it don't catch me.

—Today the armistice was signed. Whole school marched down town, shouting and everything. A man gave me five cents because I made more noise than he could.

—Vacation's over, and back to school. Having to go until 3:30. Seems like I was back in grade school.

—Chose the team for the Victory Loan speaking contest. Three sophomores are on it. Hurrah for our class!

—East High won the Victory Loan contest. It was our sophomores that did it, of course.

The Quill

- School lets out at 2:30 again. Seems as if school was more enjoyable now.
- Studying Julius Caesar. Found a place where Shakespere's language could be improved. Believe I'll write tragedies when I grow up.
- Dedicated trees for our gold stars. Very impressive ceremony, and I felt quite serious. Those were sophomores once, just like myself.
- Last day of school again. I ought to be some punkins here next year, being a junior. Think I'll work a little this summer.

'19-'20.

- Caught a freshman not yelling in pep meeting today. Told him to yell. He did.
- Storm Lake beat us. Had assembly, in which we yelled more than we had before this year.
- Beat West High again this year. Thought we were going to be easy since Storm Lake beat us, but they got fooled.
- North High beat us again today. Best game I ever saw. We sure have some team, even if we did get beat.
- Vacation this year on account of the coal strike. Evidently they think our class don't need as much school as the rest.
- Put plates over our lockers so we couldn't use our buttonhooks to open them. Another tradition busted.
- Last day of school again. My, I knew these seniors when they were sophomores. My time's coming pretty soon, I'm afraid.

'20-'21

- First day of school, and I'm a senior. 'Nuff sed.
- East High beats West High again. Three times since I've been in East High. Seemed like a game of water polo this time.
- North High victimized. City champions. Must be because I'm a senior. Also we can claim the state championship.
- Midyear class graduate today. I'm now in the ruling class. We must set an example for these freshmen.
- No more assemblies together, so we heard. Too many freshmen.
- East High wins swimming meet. Some of our team received their training in the East-West game.
- East High takes second in the basketball series. Good luck next year, I hope.
- First senior meeting. Learned what it means to be a senior.
- Elected officers for class, then went down to hear the drum corps.
- Day before Class Day. Almost done.

THE WILL OF THE CLASS OF 1921

We, the June Class of 1921, being of fairly sound and disposing mind, and realizing that the end of this glorious life is near do hereby make this, our last will and testament, hereby revoking all former wills and testaments heretofore made and do now bequeath our virtues, talents, peculiarities and faults as follows:

1. Stuart Ball's No. 13 shoes to LaVern "Arky" Witmer.
2. Julius Swartz's tennis racket to LaVerne Greenlee.
3. Vernon Hanger's hairnets to Ellis Conkling.
4. Hugh Gallagher's mathematical ability to Ransom Ringrose.
5. Gladys Springer's matronly ways to Pauline Plumb.
6. Sadie "Swede" Walker's bashfulness to Vivian Hild.
7. Elliot Guild's saxophone to Herbert Hauge.

The Quilt

8. Randolph Ruhley's executive ability to Claire Yohe.
9. Ira Allen's, "Red" Williams' and Dick Jones' ability as golfers to any promising young freshman.
10. Eugene Melone's rosy cheeks to Marvin Holstad.
11. Virginia Buck's knowledge of Chemistry to Jack Groves.
12. LaVerne Lemmon's art of kidding the fairer sex to Louis Danes.
13. Harold Devine's wonderful ability to fix cars to Corwin Redman.
14. Fridolf Hanson's and John Scovel's silver tongues to the English Department.
15. Dan Dane's fantastical manner when out with the ladies to Bert Peterson.
16. Verona Farrand's haircut to Ted Larson.
17. Roger Tornell's good looks to Homer Krueger.
18. Maurine Sandahl's giggles to Evelyn Carpenter.
19. Chuck Wiley's powderpuff to Malcom Love.
20. "Stubb" Amsden's and John Rossi's vocabulary of large meaningless words to John Bloem.
21. Jay Mitchell's ability as a student and Class President to Ralph Stutzman.
22. Adelaine Larson's blonde hair to Dayne Chambers.
23. Marjorie Green's secretarial ability to the next Senior Class.
24. Russell Colling's moving picture machine to Harold Hanger.
25. Bob Hartung's all around athletic ability to Orval Armstrong.
26. Nineteen pounds, fifteen and seven eighths ounces of Glenn Cross' extra avoirdupois to Marion Malley.
27. Frances McKee's wit to Katherine Kountz.
28. Florence Peterson's dramatic ability to Letha Gail Hostetter.
29. Jesse May's coquettish smiles to Sarah Early.
30. Orville Barker's and Harold Running's string of hearts to Charles Shane.
31. Ruth Alexander's talkativeness to Nevin Trissell.
32. Helen Eckdahl's "Bunny" to the football team.
33. Marjorie Packer's art of flirting to Edyth Sargeant.
34. Cleo Davis' typewriter to Alixa Parks.
35. Sigmund Neuman's voice to Ransom Burres.
36. Ben Lingenfelter's football ability to Leonard Anderson.
37. The service of Al Sterzing, Earl Gritton, Randolph Ruhley, and Ed McDonald in the army and navy to East High School.

In testimony whereof, we, the June Class of 1921, have, at the bottom of this will attached our signatures, in the City of Des Moines, this 25th day of May 1921.

June Class of 1921.

We the undersigned certify that on the 26th day of May, 1921, A. D. in the city of Des Moines, State of Iowa, the June Class of 1921, of East Des Moines High, to us personally known, did in our presence sign the foregoing instrument and declare the same to us to be their last will and testament.

In Witness Whereof: We have at the said time and place hereto attached our signatures in the presence of the June Class of 1921, and in the presence of each other at their request.

A. J. Burton
G. E. Gabriel.

A CLASS REUNION IN 1955

Time: 1955.

Place: Somewhere in Des Moines.

(Everyone is talking as the curtain rises).

Hazel Snyder: There aren't very many here tonight, are there?

Dorothy Pearson: No, not as many as there used to be.

Elliott Guild: This looks like some wireless apparatus. Do you know why it is here?

Ben Lingenfelter: We sent a message to Mars about two months ago and we are expecting an answer any minute. You see John Budd and Harold Divine went up in an aeroplane about a year ago and have never returned. We think they are on Mars because Dorothy Stearns and Minnie Lucas, when looking through a telescope detected what looked like a great disturbance on the planet. They thought it might be caused by the landing of John and Harold. We are in hopes that we will get a message tonight.

Helen Weissinger: Wouldn't that be interesting?

Marjorie Green: Yes, but while we're waiting, shall we read some of the messages that have come from other members of the class?

Albert Sterzing: That is a good idea. Come on, folks, and help yourselves.

Myron West: Well, here is a telegram from Charles Wiley. "Impossible for us to come. The baby has the measles." Does anyone know what he's doing?

Ben Lingenfelter: Yes, he is a doctor in Colfax, Iowa.

Vernon Hammontree: Listen to this. Edwin McDonald and Maurine Sandahl are on an Orpheum Circuit in a Scotch stunt. Ed plays the bagpipes and Maurine dances the Highland Fling.

Albert Sterzing: Roger Tornell has sent us a message with a Chicago return on it. He says that he and Virginia Buck are playing Macbeth and Lady Macbeth with Ralph Brown as manager. They will be in Des Moines soon.

Helen Weissinger: Stuart Ball says he can't come to the reunion because he is busy working on a history called "The Origin of High School Journalism." And I was buying a book for my little grandson when I saw one written by Stuart and called "Nursery Rhymes." Of course I bought it.

Earl Gritton: I saw John Scovel the other day. He is a minister in Carlyle. He was telling me about a circus that was in town. Curtis Meek was the ringmaster. I'd like to see him.

Elliott Guild: Fridolf Hanson was in town about a month ago. He was selling hair tonic then, but he told me he was planning on going into the soap business soon.

Dorothy Pearson laughing: Isn't this funny? Bessie Adams, Bertha Clark, and Gladys Ward are running an auto repair shop in Portland, Oregon. Leslie Williams is their stenographer. I pity the automobiles.

Mildred Schooler: I have some news here of Frances McKee and Florence Peterson. They are editors of a newspaper in Hawaii, Florence makes the news and Frances writes it up.

(The wireless board begins to tick. Everyone listens).

Albert Sterzing: Quick! Can anyone take the message?

Ben Lingenfelter: Yes, I'm a telegraph operator. (He takes the message and then answers it).

Myrtle Mutchler: Oh, hurry, Ben, tell us what they say.

Ben Lingenfelter: This is their message. "We are up here on Mars. Say, you ought to come up. They treat us fine here. The people seem to think we're angels and we live on angel food cake all the time. They talk Latin. We're sorry now we never took it in East High. We'll be back in Des Moines some time next year and when we go the next time we are going to take a Latin dictionary with us. We received your message and wish we could be at the reunion. John and Harold.

The Quill

Vernon Hammontree: Oh, this so exciting! I think I shall go to Mars on my vacation. I love angel food cake!

Myrtle Mutchler: I suppose we'll have to come down to earth again. Here is a letter from Harold Running and Orville Barker. They have a Mens' Beauty Parlor in Boston, and are bachelors. How did they escape?

Helen Weissinger: I wish someone knew what Mary Dailey is doing.

Georgine Scott: I have a letter here from her. She and Frances Fraley are dressmakers in Spikeville, Missouri. They are busy making a trousseau for Verona Farrand who is going to marry a rich farmer near there.

Dorothy Pearson: I wonder if there is a message from Bertha Holt. I haven't heard from her for a long time.

Ben Lingenfelter: She sent a card. Minta Morgan, Larene Streidler, and Bertha run a Hairdressing establishment in Unionville, Michigan.

Hugh Gallagher: This is fine. East High girls on the Big League Team.

Marjorie Green: What?

Hugh Gallagher: Rosie Cervi, Edith Latta, and May Vander Linden are on the Girls Big League Team in Cincinnati.

Myrtle Mutchler: Well, well, poor Marvel Brubaker!

Helen Weissinger: What's the matter with him?

Myrtle Mutchler: He was refused a patent for a new kind of baby rattle and will have to keep a peanut stand again.

Hazel Snyder: Well, East High graduates are in the movies, but I would never have believed it of LaVerne Lemmon.

Myrtle Mutchler: What about him?

Hazel Snyder: Listen to his letter from the Hollywood Studios. Perhaps you have heard of the picture "The Duke of Killarney." I'm the Duke. My screen name is Percy Keats. Since Wallace Reid retired, I am said to have taken his place. Agnes McBride plays opposite me, and Frank Burnett is my director. Sorry that it is impossible to attend the Reunion.

Myrtle Mutchler: Did you people know I was in the Movies, too?

Vernon Hammontree: No!

Myrtle Mutchler: Yes, I play vampire roles. Detlef Bogue is the hero usually although Harold McGaffee was once or twice.

Myron West: Good! Some news from Carl Crow. He's judge down in Craver-ville, Kentucky. He says he sentenced Stanley Amsden to thirty days in jail for speeding in his aeroplane.

Earl Gritton: So they are in Washington.

Albert Sterzing: Anyone I know?

Earl Gritton: Julia Ringland, Zola Overturff, and Ruth Shreves own an Infants Apparel Shop in Washington, D. C. I hope it's a success.

Elliott Guild: Margaret Hargis, Naomi Williams, and Ethel Ewing have a dancing Studio in New York.

Helen Weissinger: Did you know that Cleo Davis is a kindergarten teacher in Illinois?

Hazel Snyder: No, and did you know that Helen Ekdahl has a rabbit ranch? She was always so fond of Bunnies.

Vernon Hammontree: At last I have found a letter from Gladys Springer. She is selling music in the Davenport Music store, and Verna Hartman, and Mildred

The Quill

Mock sing in the same store, and in the Methodist Choir.

Marjorie Green: This is astonishing. Mildred DeLay and Catherine Lewis are aviatrixes. I never thought a high position like that would appeal to Catherine.

Mildred Schooler: I am glad to hear from Margaret Phillips. She is in Paris for her health. She was an actress in New York, playing little Eva in "Uncle Tom's Cabin" when she had a nervous breakdown and had to cancel her contract. She says in her letter that she met Iva McNutt who is a manager of a perfume factory in Paris, and had lunch with her.

Albert Sterzing: Well, Russell Jones will soon be famous. He won the auto race in San Pedro, California. Besides that he is the villain in Dan Dane's scenarios.

Ben Lingenfelter: Rudolph Ahlberg is an elevator boy in the Woolworth building. His mother didn't want him to be an aviator, so he did the next best thing.

Albert Sterzing: How many more letters are there?

Marjorie Green: Only a few. I just have one left. It is from Margaret Keeney. This is what she says. Wish I could come to the Reunion but cannot leave my pupils. I am teaching here in Perry, and am very fond of it, but I have difficulty with DeWitt Armstrong's little boy who is so mischievous. Did you know that DeWitt owned an opera house here? John Rossi is usher and Julius Swartz takes the tickets.

Mildred Schooler: Margaret Thomas' letter is my last. She is a Spanish dancer sometimes she says, and a Russian dancer other times. When she dances with a partner, Hugh Hall is her partner.

Myrtle Mutchler: Oh, here is a letter from India. Who can it be from? Why! Gertrude Venn, she is a doctor there!

Georgine Scott: Do all of you remember Hazel Swanson and Lorraine Patterson?

Hazel Snyder: Yes.

Georgine Scott: Well, Lorraine is stenographer for the King of England, and Hazel is the Queen's private secretary.

Hazel Snyder: What are you doing, Georgine?

Georgine Scott: Oh, I sell the books in Manning Andersons secondhand bookstore.

Dorothy Pearson: Gretchen Clow is in Arkansas with Anne and Alice Preinitz and they are all barbers. Albert Cervi and Bernard Collins are lawyers near there.

Albert Sterzing: At last here is a letter from Jay Mitchell. He is Speaker of the House of Representatives. I knew Jay would have a noble future with such a noble start. And Bob Hartung is Secretary of the Treasury! We used good judgment in electing some of the officers didn't we?

Elliett Guild: Some of our class hold city and county offices. Ruhley's on the City Council in Washington, D. C., and Eugene Melone is Sheriff in South Dakota. He makes a good one, too. He got the training from Sheriff Robb.

Myrtle Mutchler: What is Marjorie Packer doing?

Marjorie Green: She is a Station Army Worker in Florida. Are those all the letters?

Hazel Snyder: Every one.

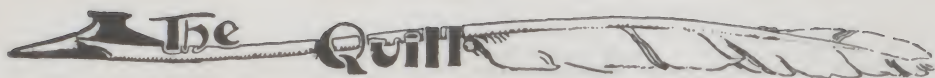

Albert Sterzing: It's up to us who are here to tell our occupations now. Marjorie, you're first.

Marjorie Green: Oh, I'm doing nothing right now. I just obtained a patent for a new electric car though. Your turn next Albert.

Albert Sterzing: I own a Furniture Store in Runnells.

Georgine Scott: Didn't you like to be Superintendent of Schools at Valley Junction?

Hazel Snyder: I'm a carpentress. I liked the work so well in East High I chose that as my vocation. I play the violin in Will Ambramson's orchestra evenings.

Dorothy Pearson: I have an orphan asylum.

Mildred Schooler: I'm principal at Webster School.

Siegmund Newman: Well Elliott Guild and I sell insurance. We own our own company.

Earl Gritton: I'm principal at East High.

Vernon Hammontree: Do you know that little Shoe Store there on fourth and Locust? I own that.

Myron West: Oh, I just keep a magazine stand. Got my training on the Quill, you know.

Helen Weissinger: I teach manicuring at East High.

Hugh Gallegher: You know I'm leading man at the Princess.

Albert Sterzing: Now what shall we do?

Siegmund Newman: I move we sing the school song.

Dorothy Pearson: Hazel will play the accompaniment.

Hazel goes to the piano and strikes a chord. Everyone stands and is singing.

(Curtain).

A STUDENT'S PROGRESS

When I had come out of the City of Knowledge I lay down and slept and dreamed a dream. I saw a small boy who from his dress I judged to be about twelve years old. Presently a ragged urchin of about the same age came up and asked him to go with him. But the first boy said:

"No, I have just learned of the great high school where one learns all sorts of things and of the shining diploma one receives when he has a certain amount of knowledge, and how one can go higher and higher to college and get more diplomas."

But the ragged boy said:

"H'm, what's the use, it's much more fun to fish and swim and play ball. You'd better stay with me and have fun and not go seeking strange places."

But the little boy refused for he wanted to see the City of Knowledge. So he entered upon his high school life and became a student. But this life was not easy. A great Slough of Despond stretched between him and the solid ground at the foot of the mountain, on whose top he could faintly discern his diploma. The slough was covered with many slips of paper, some pink, some white, all of which he must hang on to save him from Everlasting Doom. At the edge of the Slough of Despond was a pool of filthy water called the pool of Book Learning. In the pool were hidden holes, of rules to be learned, speeches and poems to be memorized, problems to be worked, all before he could get out of the pool. Beyond this were concealed pits called Fear of the Principal, Making of Programs and Inability to find Rooms, which had to be crossed.

The Student's progress was difficult; he sank many times in the Slough and was almost suffocated. He failed to find necessary hidden holes. He fell into the pits but he kept on. Many times he was tempted to turn back with those who had started with him and were afraid to go on, but always the sight of his diploma on the mountain top goaded him on and he reached the other side of the Slough in safety.

On this side of the Slough was a mountain called the Hill of Difficulty. The side of the hill was covered with rocks and stones. These stones were English, General Science, Latin, Civics, Mechanical Drawing and Public Speaking, nearly all of which had to be climbed over. One precipice which was very steep and almost unavoidable was Algebra, and the Student trembled when he came to it. But he toiled faithfully on. Half way up the rock called English he lost his hold and fell to the bottom and had to start over again. Finally, however, he scrambled over the last rock, only to find that he had ascended only a foothill of the mountain and the real Hill of Difficulties was farther away.

Stretching before him was a valley called the Valley of Humiliation. The Student did his best to avoid this valley but one day he was led into it by Disorder who at the time was traveling with him. They were talking and laughing and having an enjoyable time, but they were disturbing Studious and Care who were working away. But Order who was directing other students noticed the disturbance and said to the Student.

"Are you talking and laughing and making all this racket?"

The Student looked up startled.

"Yes," he said.

"Go and tell Justice of this, he will teach you to mend your ways, then come back to me. You must spend a week in this valley."

When the Student got out of the Valley of Humiliation he struggled on toward the Hill of Difficulty. On his way he was told he must prepare a speech. He was given a choice of several dull topics and was told to find the material about it for himself. The Student hunted for days but could find nothing. Finally he was seized by a huge terrible giant called Giant Despair who cast him into a deep dark dungeon where he found all sorts of material but none about his subject. Every day Giant Despair threatened to throw him back in the Slough of Despond, but the Student pleaded with him and he left him in the dungeon. At last in a secluded corner of the dungeon the Student found the desired material; the walls of the dungeon fell away and let him go free, and he hurried away to the Hill of Difficulty on whose top shone his diploma.

This hill was much steeper than the first but the Student had had some experience so he kept on. As he ascended this hill Geometry problems, historical events and bugs and insects impeded his progress. As he climbed farther up and struggled over American History and foreign languages he met with Patience and Persistence who helped him along. Mathematics and English were laboriously scaled and he came to a high overhanging precipice called Physics. He slipped and lost his footing hopelessly on this rock until finally he met Concentration who saved him from plunging to his death and succeeded in pulling him on top of the rock.

So he struggled on, scaling Chemistry, Economics and Trigonometry after many weeks of struggle. Now and then there was a break in the rock and he and other struggling students stopped for a picnic or party or a play, and then scrambled on. At last the Student scaled the last rock and reached the top of the hill.

Here he saw a fair plain strewn with sweet flowers. On it was his diploma, shining with a dazzling light. The Student walked as in a dream. At last he reached his diploma and laid his hand upon it and felt exuberantly happy. But as he stood for a moment looking beyond to the future of college which awaited him he felt a strange desire and dread as to what the future held for him.

But there I awoke, leaving my Student with his future before him, and realized that I had dreamed a Student's progress just as Bunyan dreamed a Pilgrim's progress.

HELPFUL HINTS FOR WOULD-BE STARS

BY MAGNOLIA.

Query: People tell me I bear a marked resemblance to Verona Farrand. Do you think it would be possible for me to understudy her?

Ans: You should write her for information or arrange for an interview. It is rumored she is leaving the screen for the stage when her contract expires June 10.

Query: What does Gladys Springer curl her hair with? I have tried everything but I can't make mine look right.

Ans: Miss Springer's hair is natural. You should bob your hair as it makes curling much more simple.

Query: Why doesn't Ed McDonald play leads? I am so tired of seeing him as a villain.

Ans: Mr. McDonald is to succeed William S. Hart when Bill retires from the screen so your wish will be fulfilled.

Query: What is the name of Lurene Stevenson's next picture and who is her director?

Ans: Miss Stevenson's picture has as yet no title. Mr. Wiley is her director.

Query: What does Jay Mitchell do to grow so tall? I have tried all kinds of exercise which caused me to break my hip when vaulting a pole.

Ans: Mr. Mitchell says it's hereditary, not developed. You should not attempt such violent exercise.

Query: I am simply mad for a picture of Elliott Guild. Where can I get one? Is it true that he is a musician?

Ans: I think you will find a picture of him in this issue, or mail him a stamped addressed envelope and 25c and perhaps he will send you one. Mr. Guild plays a saxophone in the Baker orchestra.

Query: When is the next Budd-Devine Comedy to be released?

Ans: The film is not completed as there has been extensive chemical research in connection with it. The date of its release will be announced later.

Query: Someone told me that Mr. Ball did not intend to write anymore scenarios. What is he going to do?

Ans: He intends to take a rest and speculate in oil stock before he signs his contract with the Grinnell company.

Query: How does Roger Tornell keep his books and papers so neat? Is he as neat and particular off the screen as on it?

Ans: Mr. Tornell says it is "system." "There should always be a system for everything." As far as we know he is always the same on or off the screen, at least his friends all say so.

Query: Are Virginia Buck's eyes brown or black and how old is she?

Ans: That is very hard to say. They vary, sometimes being brown and sometimes black. As for her age, well she's been a star for four years and went on the stage at the age of five. Figure it out for yourself.

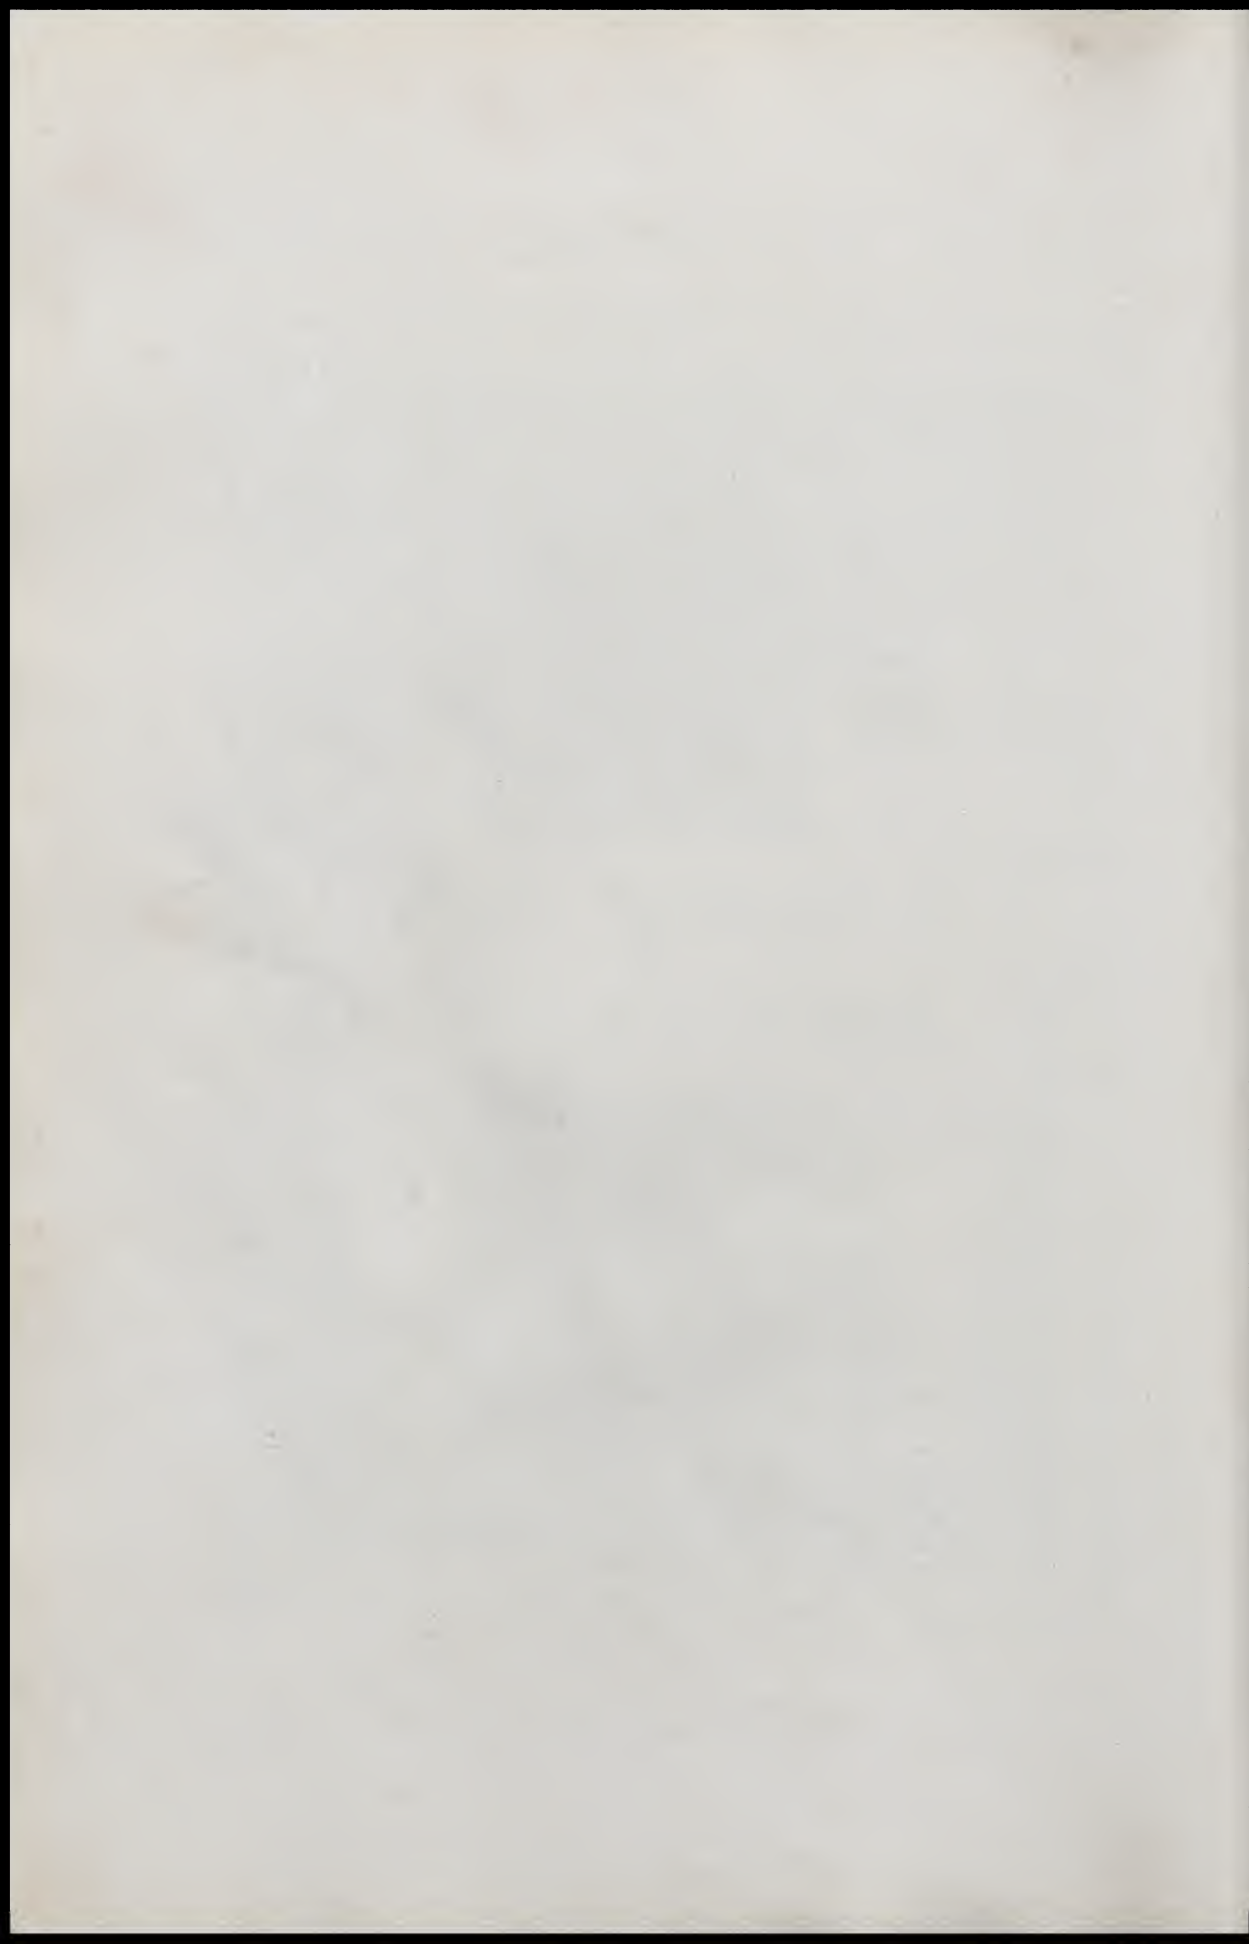

Query: Someone told me James Deskin's hair was red. I always thought it was brown. Which is it and is he Scotch?

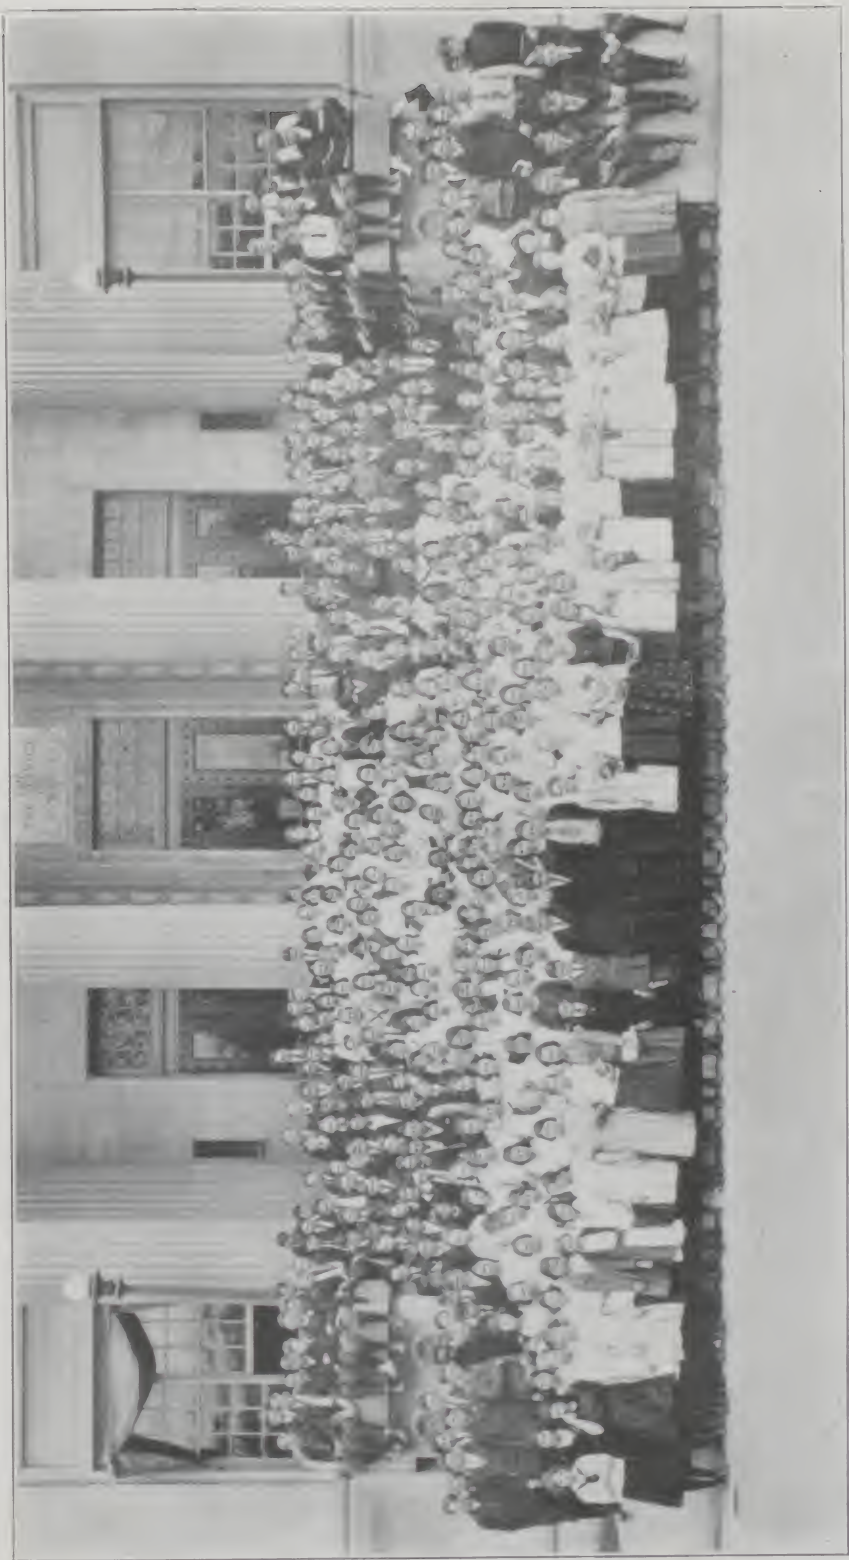

Ans: We call his hair burnished copper. As for his nationality, well, James can be English, Scotch, Irish or most anything, and since we stated once that an Italian was a Pole we never attempt to guess nationality by last names.

Query: Why does Frances McKee always take character parts and look so solemn? She would make a charming heroine.

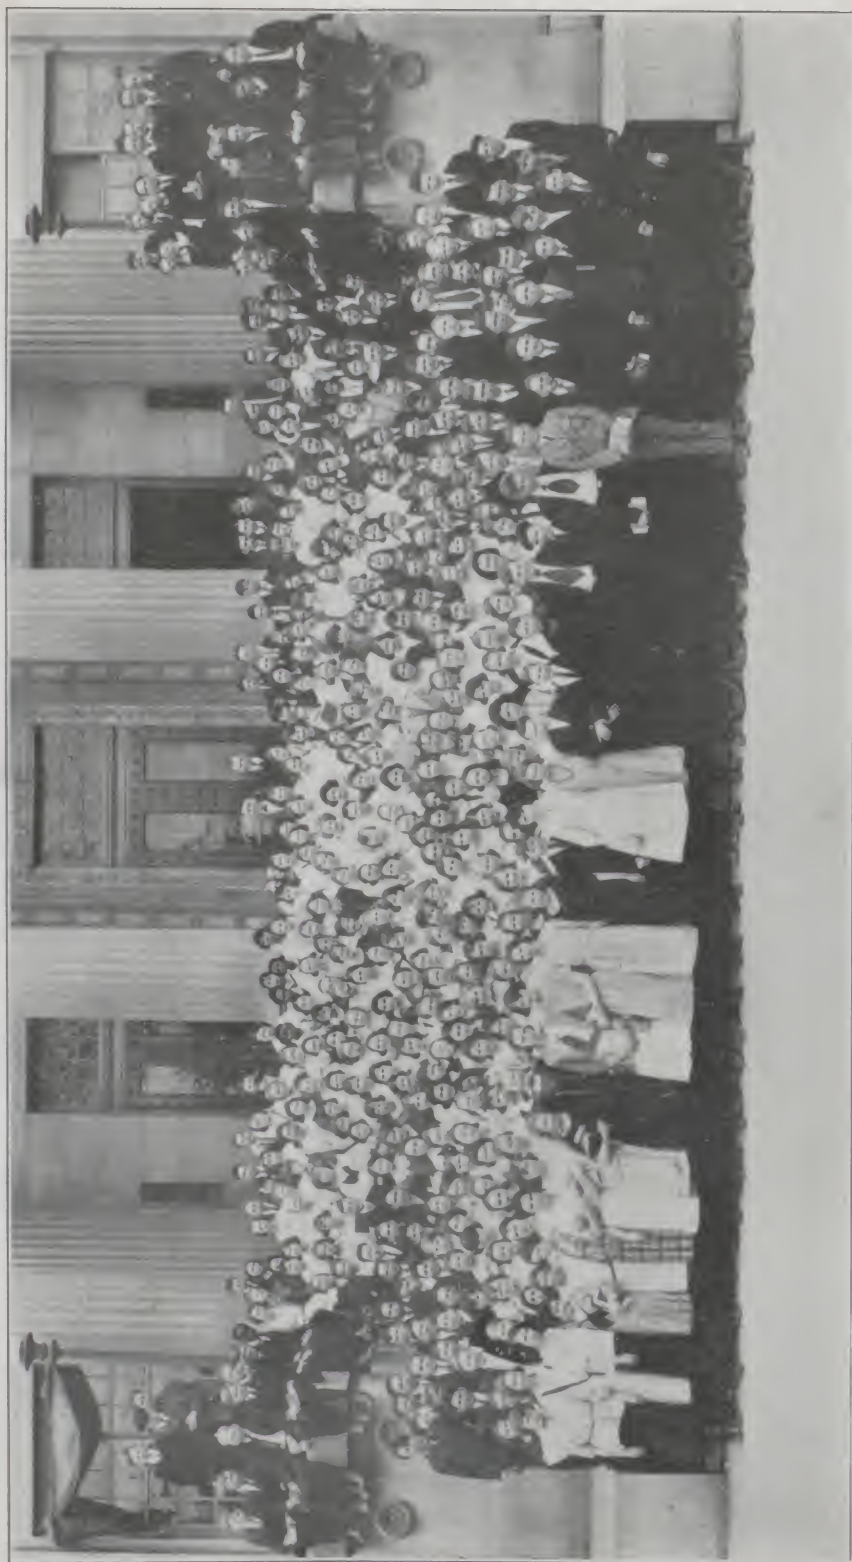

Ans: She says it's because she's kept so busy thinking of funny things to make the hero or heroine laugh at the right time that she can't stop to enjoy them. As for character roles elderly characters never laugh and it would be impossible to think up jokes to amuse yourself.

THE SENIOR OFFICERS

THE HEARTY HANDSHAKE

The seniors got acquainted at the gym. on April 15. Each one was tagged as he entered, and later on the official hand-shaking was carried out in a systematic manner. Every person twice shook hands with every other person there, and twice introduced him to someone else.

The customary grand march and a conversational promenade provided the entertainment for the first part of the evening. Before the dancing and refreshments, a few clever impromptu stunts were done.

Marvel Brubaker failed to materialize when it came time for his clog dance. He seemed to be just a little bashful. Gladys Springer, Charles Wiley, Iva McNutt, and Harold Running sang a very creditable quartette. When called upon for some antiseptic dancing, Jay Mitchell, Harold McGaffee, and Stuart Ball chose to do a futurist dance, which consisted of a long face, folded hands, and absolute immobility.

The stunts were followed by dancing and refreshments.

SPIRITS FOOLED

Friday the thirteenth, a broken mirror, a ladder leaning against the wall—they all mean something. The Seniors planned a party for Friday the thirteenth of May, and tried to fool the spirits by camouflaging themselves in costumes. It was necessary for them to be at school earlier in the day, though, so the jinx got them before they put on their costumes,—they had to dress in the dark, unless they were early birds, because the lights were turned off over the entire village.

The costumes ranged from rompers and Bo-peep to that of the Evil One Himself and from the Revolution to 2500 A. D.

While the crowd was gathering, drop the handkerchief and kindred games were indulged in. The grand march led under a ladder at the door way, over to the main building, and back to the gym via the tunnel and locker rooms.

Prizes were awarded for the most artistic, and the funniest, and a booby prize was given. Marie McNerney won the first prize for the artistic costume, an East High pennant; Marvel Brubaker won the prize for the funny costume, a horn and a rubber ball; and Anne Preinitz, one of the gold dust triplets, won the booby prize, a kewpie doll.

After the prize awards, the Maypole was tangled and untangled very gracefully. The rest of the evening was spent at dancing and refreshments.

MOVING DAY EXERCISES

On Friday the twentieth of May, memorial exercises in recognition of the ninth anniversary of moving day were held in front of the building. The Senior Class, which had charge of the exercises occupied the steps and faced the rest of the school.

After the opening music, Mrs. Snyder, speaking to the school, performed one of our Mr. Deemer's last requests, the presentation of a picture of the Kinsman Post Drum Corp. Since the Corp has become a part of East High tradition, it was deemed proper by all concerned, that it be done on such an occasion. It was accepted for the school by Mr. Burton. The Star Spangled Banner was then sung.

The three speakers for the day were Stuart Ball, Fridolf Hanson, and John Scovel. Their speeches presented the past, the present, and the future accomplishments of East High.

The school song, the dedication paragraph read in unison, and "America" closed the service.

In taking charge of these exercises the Senior Class has established a precedent which it hopes will be followed by all future classes.

Just as women have, by their entrance into politics, wrought a great change in party principles and caused a great deal of stir in political realms so has the introduction of the fair sex into the Junior Chamber of Commerce speeded up the work and advanced the ideals and purpose of the organization.

When the Junior Chamber first started out last fall, the necessity for new life, new vigor and new purpose became apparent and at last, after several attempts along other lines, the Fates turned their attention to the girls and as a result, the boys found themselves far better off with the girls lending a hand in the administration. Now, as we look back over the year, it seems impossible that the organization ever existed and achieved the things it has without the girls of the school having a hand in it. Although, there is a girls' division and a boys' division for the sake of more efficient training for work, the girls and boys meet on a common ground in the administration of affairs in the organization. Still in the period of growth and development, the Junior Chamber is a striking example of what combined efforts on the part of the students can accomplish in the way of preparing for life and East High is thankful that there has come a realization of the necessity for a union of its young men and women to produce real results and is proud of the record the Junior Chamber of Commerce has established in the past year.

THE JUNIOR CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

THE BOYS' HI-Y

The dream of Christian men and boys' of an organization which would combine Christianity and the worlds business in such a way that the the necessity of one to another would clearly be realized has surely come true in the Boys' Hi Y. The purposeful attitude of the members and officers which has characterized the Hi Y, has put things over, while an organization which lacked that attitude could not even contemplate the work. Because it is a work of service to everyone, the element of joy and happiness has lightened every task.

Good feeds, which are the nearest and quickest way to a man's heart, good fellowship, which is the only spirit in which big things can be accomplished, and a nearness to Christ and his teachings, in the atmosphere of which true success is the only possible result, have all been characteristic of the meetings of the Hi Y. May it be that the cabinet which is already at work on next years plan and the members who are eagerly looking forward to next year's work, will be able to create the same spirit of joy in the service of others, the same atmosphere of true fellowship, and may they have the environments of last year to aid them in their future work.

THE FORENSIC CLUB

The Forensic Club has finished a very successful year from a literary as well as from the social standpoint. The club was divided into two large groups, each group having seven teams and each team having a debate with a team from the opposite group. The final debate was won by Charles Wiley and Randolph Ruhley.

The two open programs were joint meetings with the E Epi Tan, the Forensic Club winning the first debate, and the E Epi Tan the second, thus dividing the honors.

On January 19, the Club was royally entertained by the Girls' Dramatic Club at a dance in the gym. In return the Club entertained the girls at a picnic at Union Park on May 13.

Perhaps the biggest event of the year occurred the night following April 30. The fellows packed up their blankets and eats, and journeyed in cars to Polk City to a camping hut. After the initiation of some new members, a great calamity befell when the bed broke down under an over supply of occupants. In the morning we ate a breakfast cooked ourselves and voted to have another hike sometime soon.

Graduation will take away many valued members, a fact which the club regrets. They are proud however, of the fourteen members who will leave in June. The Forensic knows that they will be good leaders in whatever work they take up. The club wishes to thank the faculty for their co-operation, which it feels has contributed at all times to its success.

E EPI TAN

As Father Time closes the journal of this school year, the members of the E Epi Tan Literary Society are proud that they can look back over their work with the feeling that they have really accomplished something in the way of preparing themselves for the future. The purpose of the society, when organized, was the preparation of its members for good citizenship, and the creation of a desire for the same principles throughout the school and community.

With each program the work has been pushed forward and with each new member, the ultimate attainment of the goal has been assured. Although the membership is greatly lessened by the Seniors who are graduating, they have the assurance that they have left successors who will carry on the work with the same courage, and with the same purpose of mind.

The record of the achievements of the society indeed warrant the pride which each member feels. In addition to the unusually profitable programs which have been presented at the regular meetings, several super events stand out as milestones on the Road of Progress. Defeated by the Forensic in a debate early in the year, the E Epi Tan returned the challenge and retrieved itself and the reputation of the Debating Society by winning two debates and tying a third one in an interesting debating program. A peppy extemporaneous debating contest in which Victory finally passed the crown of a hotly contested championship to Ralph Stutsman, helped keep up interest in the society while a number of open meetings worked up interest in debating among the other students and friends of the school.

The Society is closing this year with two of the biggest and best events of the whole period. On May 23, the Senior team, consisting of H. Gallegher, R. Ringrose and S. Neuman, will debate the North High Debating Club on the question of Philippine independence.

The event which has been looked forward to by the members for some time will be held Friday, May 20 when the members and their lady friends will close the year with a picnic at Grandview Park.

The Quill

THE BAND

The band has just completed the second successful year in its history. The band which was organized last year continued all through this year, and with the valuable experience which was gained from last year's practice, together with the practice that the members have recently received, the band has discarded much of the music which has been mastered.

The band helps to put pep into assemblies, football games, and track meets. When the band plays the school song, it fills us all with enthusiasm, and makes us feel like singing it with all our might.

Because East's band is a pep maker, it has become a necessary and important organization of the school.

THE BOYS' AND THE GIRLS' GLEE CLUBS

The Girls' Glee Club has been organized since the beginning of the year but the boys' Club was not organized until the beginning of the second semester. Since each of these clubs was organized they have been practicing regularly, the boys on Monday and Wednesday and the girls on Tuesday and Thursday. Some one is always wanting the Glee Clubs to sing and the Clubs do their best to entertain their audiences.

The boys seem to think that they can sing better than the girls but the girls tell another story. When the two clubs sing together it is hard to tell which of the two is superior so both sides still maintain their opinions and cannot be convinced differently.

The two Glee Clubs sang in the May Festival which was given at East High School, May 6. The boys sang two numbers and the girls also sang two numbers; then the two together sang the last number.

The boys and girls like picnics as well as they like singing and the picnic which the two clubs had on May 25 was a success.

With this picnic ended the Glee Clubs work for this year.

The Quilt

THE NORMAL TRAINING CLUB

THE ORCHESTRA

PHILOMATHEAN LITERARY SOCIETY

This year's work has meant much to the Philo girls.

A new interest was created when the club was divided into two groups, each group furnishing entertainment and a social hour for one meeting. The first group gave a play and later served delicious homemade candy.

Much curiosity developed when the girls appeared at school wearing their new monograms, in the club colors. Apparently everyone in school asked what they stood for.

The party at which the Philos entertained the Boys' Glee Club and the members of the E. Epi Tan was an enjoyable affair. Many games were played in which Mr. Burton, Mr. Warren, and Miss Wood, putting dignity after pleasure, joined with the merry crowd.

Following the election of officers at the last meeting, group two entertained the society, serving refreshments and furnishing entertainment, making this meeting a fit culmination for the work of the year.

We feel that we owe much of this year's progress to Miss Wood, our faculty advisor, and Hazel Snyder, our president. They, as well as the other officers, did everything in their power for the advancement of the society.

Zannah Moore.

TENNIS CLUB

What's the matter with the Tennis Club. They're all right!

And of course you heartily agree after seeing the style in which they played off the various tournaments last year and this. The boys' and the girls' Senior Tennis Club have a tournament of Singles each year, but this year a mixed double tournament was added which has been even more fun than the singles.

It was surprising to find how well the mixed doubles were played off and all the games proved very interesting. The winners, Clara Hinricks and Julius Swartz, played many hard games before they finally became champions of East High.

Last year in the Girls' Singles Clara Hinricks was the champion and won the silver cup. Virginia Buck was runner up and played a very good game, making Clara play hard for all her points.

In the Boys' Singles, Julius Swartz was the champion and Max Shoemaker the runner up. This year the Singles are being played with even more pep than last, and are bound to prove interesting.

THE STUDENT COUNCIL

As another school year nears the boundary between reality and memory East High is glad to look back upon the achievements of its Student Council and be able to say "Well done." Two semesters of hard, yet enjoyable and profitable work have made better public workers of every member of the Council, and have produced a far better atmosphere of school spirit and co-operation in which the student body as a whole has grown stronger physically, mentally, and morally.

Planning assemblies and programs for social hours, putting over ticket sales for entertainments, and disposing of general school matters, is in itself enough to earn them commendation. However, when one considers the dozens of other extra routine duties which the Council has assumed, of which the Clean Up Campaign is a good example one begins to realize the importance of the Student Council and the great service it renders to the school. It is then that we can truly appreciate our opportunity in having a representation government and be thankful that we have among us those who are able to create a co-operative spirit, and to make our school the "finest institution in America." Our earnest wish is that all coming administrations will be able to advance the work which this administration has so well begun, and that all future student bodies will have the same spirit of helpfulness which has lightened the tasks of this year's Student Council.

THE LATIN CLUB

A high school club's prosperity is measured by the number of its members and their interest in the club. The Latin Club has a membership of seventy-five persons, all of whom take part willingly in the programs. The membership is limited to those who take Latin but in spite of this fact, the Latin Club is one of the leading clubs in the school.

This extraordinary success is due to a number of reasons. First and foremost we have as faculty advisors the three Latin teachers who boost for us at every opportunity in the classroom. We realize that "three heads are better than one."

The programs have carried out the purpose of the club, that is, they have taught us of Roman habits and customs. We were interested in learning how the Romans conducted their schools and how they christened their children.

The constitution was entirely out of date and inadequate for our membership and, in view of these conditions, we revised it. The constitution as it stands now, guarantees certain rights and privileges, such as classroom credit for work in the club. But a large membership while making possible and expedient the granting of privileges creates certain obligations. Failure to meet these obligations is met in various ways. For instance, if a committee fails to report at a given time it is awarded a zero instead of the usual classroom one.

The officers for the first semester were:

John Bloem, president; Lucile Brody, vice-president; Alice Miller, secretary; Claire Yohe, ianitor; Zanah Moore, ianitrix.

The officers for the second semester were:

Claire Yohe, president; Madalynn Philleo, vice-president; Kathryn Fulton, secretary; Malcolm Love, ianitor; (Raymond Shaw filled his unexpired term); Helen Lightfoot, ianitrix.

The Latin Club looks forward to the next year and hopes for as successful and prosperous a season as it has enjoyed this year.

THE FALL PLAYS

COMMUNITY PROGRAMS PLAY

Students of East High School brought to a fitting close the best Community Programs course ever offered East Des Moines by presenting Charles Klein's well known play, "The Lion and the Mouse," on the evening of March 17 and 18.

It is comparatively easy to entertain an audience with something humorous, but to undertake a production of more or less serious nature illustrating great moral truths is almost beyond the scope of amateur players. That our players succeeded was demonstrated by the manner in which their performance gripped the audience of grown ups on the first evening. Seldom if ever does an audience of that character give the approval to amateurs that this one accorded to the principals, Stuart Ball and Margaret Phillips, in the ovation they received at the close of the third act. Every other member of the cast rose to their parts in the same way, and another "best high school play ever given" was added to our list. It was demonstrated once again that in the little woman behind the scenes, Miss Corey, we have a "master mind" in the direction of plays. The membership of the cast follows:

Eudoxia.....	Ruth Spry
Rev. Pontifex Deetle.....	John Rossi
Jane Deetle.....	Katherine Fulton
Mrs. Rossmore.....	Florence Peterson
Miss Nesbit.....	Maurine King
Judge Rossmore.....	Albert Sterzing

WHAT HAPPENED TO JONES

The seniors of '21 presented, on June 2 and 3, the George H. Broadhurst play, "What Happened to Jones." The cast was well chosen, and all the parts were successfully interpreted.

Jones, a gambling hymn book salesman, who, through an amusing turn of circumstances found himself in the home of Prof. Ebenezer Goodly, was able to extricate himself from the muddle only by masquerading as the Bishop of Ballarat, by lying copiously, and by inducing others to keep him company in his duplicity. It all ended well, but poor Ebenezer barely escaped a nervous collapse.

The scenery was good, and the play gave evidence of being well directed. The cast follows:

Jones.....	Charles Wiley
Ebenezer Goodly.....	Roger Tornell
Mrs. Goodly.....	Frances McKee
Antony Goodly, Bishop of Ballarat.....	Russell Jones
Alvina Starlight.....	Bertha Holt
Marjorie, Ebenezer's daughter.....	Virginia Buck

- June 6—Class Day. The Seniors' own day, when they review the past and predict the future.
- June 10—At last, the nine long months are over and with a sigh of relief we start on our summer vacation.

OUR BIG YEAR

BIG YEAR FOR SPORTS AT EAST HIGH

During the season just closed, the East High athletes have won honors in every line of sport. They have made enviable records, and boosters of the Scarlet and Black can review with pride the accomplishments of the past season. Our football team last fall, did not lose a game and they were scored on but twice throughout the season. The scores made by the track team were won against keen competition. The most points won by the team was in the city meet, which they won by a lead of 26 points. The swimming team captained by Ellis Conkling won the city swimming meet and showed excellent form in both the Ames and the Iowa City meets. Taking the whole year into consideration East High has had a great year in sports as the tables will show.

SPRING FOOTBALL

In spite of the extremely hot weather Coach Moyer has a number of fellows out going through spring football practice. They are working hard and are determined to win a position on the team next fall. They realize that it takes a lot of hard persistent effort to make an excellent football player, but evidently they think the reward well worth the hard work. These fellows offer a good example to the freshman who goes out for the first time but gets discouraged because he does not make the team. If he will stick to it and go out for practice regularly, then when he does make the team there will be very few men better fitted to play his position.

SWIMMING

In the past year East High made its first appearance in the interscholastic swimming meets at Ames and Iowa City. At the beginning of the year it looked doubtful whether Mr. Russell, swimming instructor for the Des Moines High Schools, would be able to develop a winning team, but hard work combined with the interest and enthusiasm showed by the members of the swimming team enabled him to turn the trick.

The first contest was in February when our team swam its way to victory and defeated both West and North, winning the city Swimming Championship, and bringing home two silver loving cups.

At the Ames meet and the Iowa City meet our team, battling hard against experienced teams, won fourth and fifth places.

Ellis Conkling, captain and biggest individual point winner, with Nate Ginsberg and George Turbett, both big point winners, will be with the team again next year and give promise of doing big things. As a reward for their excellent pool work, Marion Hawk, Nate Ginsberg, Myron West, Ellis Conkling, and George Turbett were given swimming monograms. In preparation for their next year's work the swimming team named Myron West as Captain-elect for 1921-1922.

THE 1921 TRACK TEAM

EAST HIGH RECEIVES LOVING CUPS

Several times this spring the athletes have presented the school with trophies of their victories. These trophies were for the most part loving cups which will be added to our already large number and placed in the trophy case.

In the first of these assemblies Ellis Conkling, captain of the swimming team, presented to the school the City Championship cup and at the same time he gave to the school's custody a three-year cup which our swimmers must win two more years in succession before we can claim it permanently.

In the second assembly the school was enriched by three cups, track team trophies from the city meet which were presented by Captain O'Dell. He presented us, in the third assembly, with two cups from the Grinnell meet. Besides the cups a banner for first place in the shuttle race was won at the Drake Relays.

SPRING GOLF

On April 4, 1921 East High opened its golf season with a very successful spring tournament. Sixteen players qualified for this event and despite the weather conditions, all the rounds were played on schedule. The tournament closed after a close game, with Marsden Jones winning the school championship from Wilbur Bjork.

In the interscholastic match six boys representing East High played the team from West High on the Grandview links. Although West High was successful in defeating our team, all the matches were close and some good scores were turned in. The team chosen by Mr. Hostetter to represent East High was Raymond Shaw, Ira Allen, Marsden Jones, Richard Jones, Wilbur Bjork, and Leslie Williams.

RHYMES FOR SENIORS

MISS GABRIEL

Oh! Miss Gabriel she lived in a school.
She had so many seniors she didn't know what to do,
She gave them her knowledge along with her smiles,
To add to their credits stored up in the files.

JAY MITCHELL

Old King Jay
Was merry and gay,
Merry and gay was he;
He called us together
To hear the reports,
Which made us as glad as could be.

BESSIE ADAMS

I like little Bessie,
Her hair is so brown,
And if I don't tease her
She'll do me no harm.

MARTHAREEN HANSEN

When Marthareen opened the door
To success, in that play "Pinafore"
She showed us in time
That at dancing she's fine
And now we admire and adore.

GENEVA SANDELIN

Geneva, who's very tall,
Makes a hit when she tries to play ball;
She gets ready to run,
But before she's begun,
The umpire hollers, "Foul ball."

SADIE WALKER

Sadie Walker is a girl
Who many games does play,
Now e'en this part in life's mad whirl
Is a worthy function, I say.

JULIUS SWARTZ

When it comes to playing tennis,
And skimming o'er the courts,
And sending champions to defeat,
We introduce Julius Swartz.

ZOLA OVERTURFF

She's just a winsome little lass,
Still plays house on the lawn;
When she was young, she played with Jacks,
But now she plays with Johns.

GLADYS SPRINGER

ALBERT STERZING

"Let's start for home," quoth Gladys,
Said Al, "Let's stay awhile,
A theater's the grandest place
For one to put on style."

The Quill

FRANCES FRALEY

Little Miss Fraley
Had just one meal daily,
If she ate more, she never would say;
But along came a fellow,
Made the rest all look yellow,
And now she eats FOUR meals a day.

ORVILLE BARKER

Mr. Barker, teacher's pet,
Will not worry, will not fret;
Wonder what his wife will say
If he can't find work some day.

MARVEL BRUBAKER

Marvel, Marvel, Piper's son,
Stole a pig and fast did run;
The pig was eat, and Marvel beat—
So he ran crying down the street.

GLENN CROSS

Oh, Mr. Glenn Cross, he sat on a wall,
Oh, dear Mr. Cross, he had a great fall;
And all the king's horses and all the king's men
Just couldn't put Glennie together again.

RUTH SHREEVES

ELLIOTT GUILD

Mr. Guild could eat no fat,
And Ruth could eat no lean;
So 'twixt them both, they cleared the cloth
And licked the platter clean.

BEN LINGENFELTER

High, diddle diddle,
The cat and the fiddle,
Our Bennie jumped over the moon.
The track team gasped
To see such craft—
And the cup came along with the spoon.

FRANCES MCKEE

Frances, get your English—o—
Hand your Quill work in;
Cut the club and dancer—o—
Finish with a vim.

The Responsibilities of Age

Very little is expected of children. When they advance to High School responsibilities begin to accrue. With college, young men and women must exercise their own initiative in fulfilling their duties, and shape their characters which lead them up or down in later business years. As time goes by, reputations are established, which, if they are to be enviable and lasting, must be founded on merit.

For over a quarter century, the Garfield has been clothing men and young men of Des Moines and central Iowa. Some of our first patrons are still Garfield customers. Each year new ones are added—old ones retained. Our established reputation for quality garments at honest prices must be maintained. The responsibilities of age cannot be overlooked. Consequently, Garfield customers continue to dress better for less.

MAURINE SANDAHL

Our dear Miss Maurilly has now come to town,
With a petticoat green, and a bright yellow gown.

MILDRED DELAY

There's a little girl, Mildred Delay,
Who would like to have things her own way,
But in four years she's learned
Where she is concerned
To expect that much does not pay.

GLADYS ENGLE

Gladys has learned not to shirk
And to obey commands with a jerk,
She has well used her time
And is now doing fine
Since she entered commercial work.

RUSSEL COLLINGS

When Russel, that dandy young man,
Goes to telling the class of his plan,
He's quite energetic,
And enthusiastic,
For he is our young "movie" man

CURTIS MEEK

Little plumpy lady's man.
Now don't you soil your gloves,
And don't forget the senior play,
While calling on your lady loves.

PAUL RANSOM

There's a tall lanky laddie named Ransom,
An auburn haired blonde, and quite handsome.
He can toot the cornet
Without worry or fret;
They all say he's a wonder and then some (with the girls).

JOHN ROSSI

Here's to good old John Rossi,
A mighty man was he;
He killed two giants with a twist of his wrist,
But he should have made it three.

ROGER TORNELL

Diddle, diddle, dumpling, Roger Tornell,
He is the boy who does his work well,
But how he does it, he won't tell,
Diddle, diddle, dumpling, Roger Tornell.

RANDOLPH RUHLEY

Little Randolph Ruhley runs through the school,
Upstairs and downstairs acting so cool;
Bumping into teachers, bumping into us,
And, for such a little boy, he makes an awful fuss.

WILLIAM ABRAMSON

A dillar, a dollar, a ten o'clock scholar,
Why does Bill come so soon?
He used to come at ten o'clock,
And now he comes at noon.

Lovely New Tub Frocks

Leads the Fashions for June

They are given precedence for the delightful new features they bring to summer modes.

And every phase of tub frock fashions is given full and complete presentation in these crisp fresh assortments whose beauty pervades the section now.

Each Frock Has the Deft Touch
Which Means Individuality of Mode

It's surprising, too, how well each different taste is met in the varying styles of these frocks. Whether they are designed for practical wear or to be a bit more frivolous. Because of their very excellent value certain groups are featured.

BESSIE SEAMAN

As for working both morning and night,
Our Bessie does both every day;
We're sure there are no boys in sight—
Although we have not heard her say.

LUCILE WYCOFF

Lucile is some mathematician,
Her lessons must be studied right;
She will probably marry a grocer—
She can count money then, day and night.

MILDRED MILLER

For knowing the wee hours by heart,
And the face of the clock the same way;
I'll venture, if sleeping, she could tell you
The date of that long-looked-for day.

ORLO CLEWELL

Mr. Clewell is going to school
To acquire a vast store of knowledge;
We earnestly plead that he will succeed
And continue his progress in college.

HARRY INNIS

Harry Innis is a man of business,
A chemist of great renown,
But he has a way that makes one say
He would be a success as a clown.

MANNING ANDERSON

Manning! Manning! Come give me your fiddle,
If you ever expect to thrive;
"Nay, nay," says Manning, "I'll not give my fiddle
To any man alive."

VIRGINIA BUCK

Virginia! Virginia!
Oh, whither go so fast!
You do enough running
For the whole senior class.

BERTHA CLARKE

A poet of fame is Miss Clarke,
With pencil and paper you'll find her;
If she hasn't them both in her hands—
They're sure to be walking behind her.

IRA ALLEN

This fellow thinks silence is golden;
He recites, that's all, nothing more;
But oh, after school, with his golf clubs—
You just ought to hear him shout "Fore."

AARON SCHNEIDER

Ask Aaron how to play a song,
He'll teach you to play it right;
But don't you sometimes wonder
Where he goes on Friday night?

RUDOLPH AHLBERG

Rudolph is very diplomatic,
He believes in saving, too;
In Civics he is very bright,
We think great deeds he'll do.

CLARA HINRICHS

If Clara had a chance, I fear,
At the world's tennis tournament here,
She wouldn't give up
Till she'd won a cup
To bring back like the one from last year.

ETHEL AND ELVERA NELSON

When these two were brought by the queens
To be always together, it seems
While one weighs a lot,
And the other does not,
They both have a lot in their "beans."

MARJORY GREEN

No wonder that Marjory Green
Of late so busy has been,
For she's secretary—
Her duties she'll carry
As nicely as was ever seen.

BERTHA HOLT

There's a studious one, Bertha Holt,
Who seemed to feel quite a jolt
When she wasn't allowed
On account of the crowd
To have more than ten subjects to bolt.

CLAIR ROCKHÖLZ

Mr. Clair Rockholz,
Who is very bland,
Blows a very wicked note,
When he plays in the band.

DEWITT ARMSTRONG

Dewitt is a sober young lad,
But so small he can scarcely be seen;
When not talking, he studies like mad—
He is bound that he won't be called "green."

MARGARET GRIFFITHS

What a musical bird is our Margaret,
And she longs for the star-light each day;
We hope she will find it a-waiting—
Though it be fifteen years from next May.

RUSSELL JONES

When difficult words you are after,
Just follow the footsteps of Jones;
If not "hammering the pavement" he's apt
To be "snoozin' and restin' his bones."

HUGH GALLEGHER

A noted debater is Hugh,
And though he grows wiser each day—
There's not much that he wouldn't do
If "Please sir," you only will say.

STANLEY AMSDEN

There is no other talker like Stanley,
He could talk till he's blue in the face;
If he stops before he's quite finished—
He'll start talking again at that place.

MARTHA MORTINSON

A dear, loving girl is our Martha,
But English to her is a bore;
There is much to be gained by her friendship
And you'll wish you had met her before.

VERNA HARTMAN

We predict a great future for Verna,
In opera she will surely make good;
We hope that we'll stay in her mem'ry,
Though right with her we'd go if we could.

LESLIE WILLIAMS

All red-headed people are brilliant,
They can talk if they know what to say;
And Leslie will, too, if you start him,
But I doubt if he'd talk the whole day.

DOROTHY PEARSON

She's an awfully nice girl, but there's someone
She will think about every day;
I really can't tell you his full name,
But his first initial is "K."

JESSIE MAY

Miss May is this lady's name,
Whom we all know to be of great fame;
In her studies she's fine,
Always at school on time,
And always is playing the game.

LOVELLE DOWNING

Little Lovelle Downing,
You never see her frowning,
For she's just as pleasant as can be,
And it's said she knows her A B C's.

OWED TO BURNS

Oh wad some power the giftie gie us
Ilka shrinking daisy, frae sae ben
I wish I had a bonnie deoch and dorris
What means all this? It's bunk! I dinna ken!
For since we studied Burns we shall go nutty
And Scotch is all the frenzied Seniors say,
The question that has caused me loads of worry
Is why on earth did Bobbie write that way!

THE CAREFUL STUDENT

May I borrow your locker key? I left mine on the top of my locker but it seems to be gone—oh yes, I gave it to Mary when she went after my history book. Oh dear! I haven't any typewriting paper. I told Anne to get me some but she never can remember anything. Where is my fountain pen? I was sure I put it in my shorthand book. When did I have it last? Oh yes, yesterday fourth period. I remember now, I left it in there. Well, the teacher knows who it belongs to. Oh, I meant to get a slip for the second hour to-day but I'll go tomorrow instead. Oh, you're waiting for your key, aren't you. Thanks ever so much!

REMARKS ABOUT SENIOR PICTURES

Oh, I don't like mine at all. I had one taken two years ago that was a lot better.

I think these are awfully good of you, Grace.

Oh, don't you think this is an awful one of Harry? He looks like an old man.

I don't like the lighting effect on mine.

I really think he would have taken a better one with his glasses off.

Isn't her hair cunning?

The pictures are very good this year. Don't you think so?

I wonder whose pictures will come just before mine.

I think I should have taken a profile.

We get cheated on the second dozen, I tell you. We get the first dozen for $4.75 and the second for $5.00.

Which do you think looks best, Zola's or Julia's?

WHAT IF—

Le Roy Bruce flunked Physics?

Iva McNutt bobbed her hair?

Jay Mitchell were as tall as Corwin Redman?

John Budd and Harold Devine separated?

Harry Innis were caught studying?

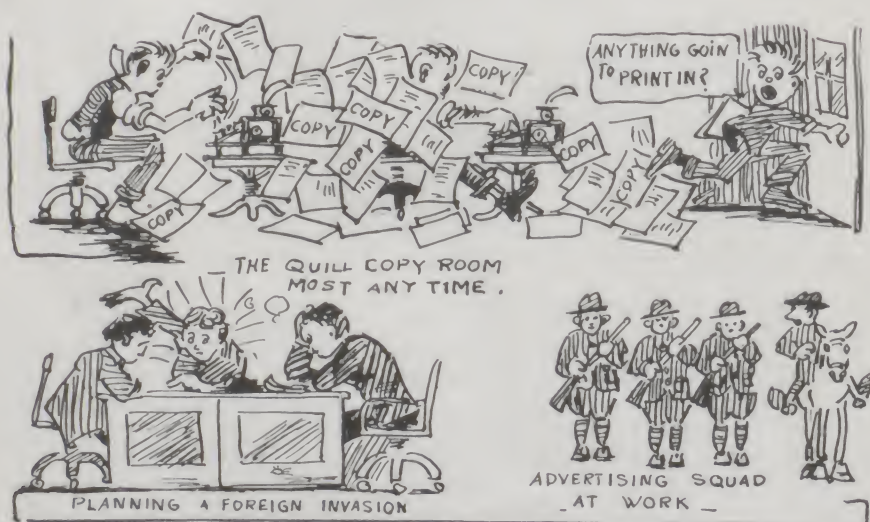

Hugh Gallagher stopped arguing?

Stuart Ball had nothing to say?

Roger Tornell didn't have his math.?

There were no slips—pink or otherwise?

John Rossi had light hair?

HASH!

The boy stood on a valley,
Looking down into the hill,
His mouth was dry and empty,
As he slowly gulped his fill.
He heard no sound about him
As the wolf's cry met his ear
And he listened to it calmly,
For his mind was full of fear.
The courtroom full of people
Was as empty as a grave
And the man that sat upon the bench
Stood trembling in his cave.
A scream of terror filled the air,
As a woman laughed in glee,
The judge pronounced him guilty.
And he yelled "Hurrah—I'm free!"

A DISCUSSION IN E 6

Question: "What was Lady Macbeth's attitude toward her husband?"

Quick student: "Why, she loved him."

Aggressive student: "Aw no, she didn't. What did she go and have him kill the king for if she loved him?"

Brilliant student: "Why, she wanted him to be happy."

Romantic student: "Why, he was handsome and she couldn't help loving a handsome man."

Positive student: "She loved him because she understood him. No one would love something they couldn't understand. It's just like algebra, if you understand it you like it."

Dubious student: "What did she let him kill the king for then?"

Impulsive student: "Why somebody had to kill him."

Down-trodden student: "Well, why didn't they hire somebody then?"

Earnest student: "Because the murderer had to be a hero."

Skeptical student: "H'm she just got cheated out of being queen, so she made him kill Duncan so she could get what she wanted."

Bored student: "Oh well, what if she did love him. He killed the king and they all died in the end so what's the difference?"

DO YOU REMEMBER WHEN—

You were afraid to go into the library?
You got three "1's"?
You had to go to Miss Goodrell for admits?
You used to open your locker with a buttonhook?
There was plenty of room in the cafeteria?
You weren't restricted to the front corridor at the noon hour?
There were no combination lockers?
There were no divided assemblies?
You studied in a big study room?

HAVE YOU EVER—

Been called down in the study room for chewing gum?
Gone into class late without an admit and made the excuse that you'd dropped your books?
Lost your locker key just before a study period on the day you were to have a history test?
Been accused of whispering when you hadn't said a word for five minutes?
Waited for an admit in Mr. Warren's office?
Gone to class and found that you'd lost your notes for a speech?
Gone into the wrong room and retreated amid the smiles and suppressed giggles of the students?
Handed an article in to the Quill and had it printed?

REMARKS HEARD JUST AFTER THE SENIORS HAD SELECTED PINS

If I'd had anything to say about it, we would have taken number 2.
This is the worst one in the bunch.
Well, it's better than last year's anyway.
I liked number 1 better, but I voted for 2 because Bessie wanted it.
That white stuff doesn't look good.
It would make a good ring, but I want a pin.
It probably won't stay fastened.
Why, it isn't one piece at all.
At least it is small. I was so afraid they would choose a great big one.

Fine Furs at Factory Prices

THE best quality furs
at factory prices
—this is the inducement we offer.

Fur Storage—Furs Repaired

It is risky to leave fine furs in your home through the summer. It is our business to care for them properly and insure you against any loss.

Better have your old furs cleaned and repaired and made to look like new again, and ready for wear this fall. Special summer prices on this work. Just telephone, Maple 1388, for our representative.

A CLARK CAR

(Inspiration received last night while seeing a lonely car pass by).

I rattle, rattle as I go
Past Chevrolet and Flivver,
For a bus may come, a bus may go,
But I go on forever.

I pass by houses cute and white
I give quite sudden lurches
I hit a thousand bumps and holes
And pass a dozen churches.

I rattle, rattle as I go
I run on schedule—never!
For time may come, and time may go
But I go on forever.

If you have money with you, when you see something you want,
your hand thoughtlessly goes down into your pocket to buy it.

This develops extravagance.

With a checking account in our Bank, your money is just as accessible, but not having the actual cash, you are not tempted so strongly to spend it.

In this way, a checking account promotes saving and wealth—two things necessary to achieve the really big things you have set your heart upon.

Dan Danes: Shall we lick the flaps of these envelopes?

Miss Gabriel: That's all a question of taste.

Inquiring Senior: Are there any people of ability in the Junior class?

Miss Gabriel: Please finish your
Dickens reading tomorrow.

Ben Lingenfelter: Well we'll have to read like the dickens.

Fridolf Hanson in Public Speaking class: Miss Corey, my brain has ceased to function.

Bob Hartung: How would you like a little pet dog?

Margaret Keeney: This is so sudden.

Miss St. John: Now you're off on a tangent.

Roger Tornell: If people can go off on tangents, why not co-tangents?

Miss St. John: That's a bad sign.

TRAVELERS' LUGGAGE

It is very apparent that you should buy your luggage from a house that fully understands leather and are good judges of all kinds of leather. We make special effort in buying only the best in the luggage of today.

There's More To a Home Than Dollars and Cents

No one can measure the cash value of a happy home. It's the biggest thing in life.

If you are living in cramped and uncomfortable quarters, if you have been planning for a home when conditions become right—then see us today.

The delay in new building has forced lumber and building material prices downward at a tremendous clip. Manufacturers caught with big stocks on hand, have had to turn them over at cost.

We have taken advantage of the situation and as a result we are able to show you substantial reductions on practically every item we carry—many of our prices compare favorably with those of 1917.

THIS IS A GOOD TIME TO SEE US

With our city short hundreds of homes people can't delay much longer in their new building. Demand will stimulate prices; manufacturers will again ask a legitimate profit; and we can again expect increased building costs.

In the meantime we offer you A HOME—and at a price that cannot fail to please you. If you will call or phone us, we will be glad to go into detail.

Sport Togs

*—the accepted “sport fashions”
in extraordinary showings
at the Standard Store*

Sport suits

Naturally these are much to the fore in a season when the “great out-doors” rules.

We specialize in sport apparel and distinctly give emphasis to that specialization by splendid representation of the choicest and the best.

Sport skirts

For the links, while motoring and on many other occasions are sport skirts essential. There's especial pleasure in wearing them when they are in such delightful styles as are represented in our recently augmented stock. Silk, woolen and cotton skirts.

Sport shoes

The new strap oxfords are late arrivals to be added to our already comprehensive stock of sport footwear.

They're “pretty as a picture” with their black trimmings and white ivory leather heels. The prices range from $7 to $9.

Sport hats

Dashing new sport hats for the typical American women who spend Summer out-of-doors and who never for one minute forget to be charmingly dressed and still give thought to comfort which is so essential at this season.
